For Maria-Carmen Perlingeiro, an artist known for her delicate and rigorous work in stone, sculpture is not only constituted by its meaning and beauty, but also by the radiation that comes off the three-dimensional object. Such radiations are visible, mainly, in the works made with alabaster, a stone originating from the Tuscan region that has peculiar characteristics, such as its subtly opaque translucency and relative softness, which makes it the ideal material for bringing together Perlingeiro's main interests: the stone and the light. By adding gold leaves or other elements from the mineral or animal world to the incisions, cuts and holes in the stone, the artist creates atmospheres of unique luminosity, where reflections seem to amalgamate inside and outside, stone and light.

Maria-Carmen Perlingeiro studied at the School of Fine Arts at the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro and graduated from the École Supérieure d'Art Visuel, in Geneva, Switzerland, where she later taught. In the 1980s, she moved to New York, where she studied at the Pratt Institute and the Art Students League. When visiting Sergio Camargo's studio, in Carrara, Italy, she fell in love with the density, resistance and weight of marble. In the 1990s, she discovered alabaster, in Volterra, Tuscany, which became her main raw material.

In the 90s, she won the prize from Banco Darier Hentsch & Cie, in Geneva. In 2000 she received 1st Prize in the "Lausanne Jardins 2000" competition, with the landscape project "As Spears de Uccello". Participated in exhibitions at Paço Imperial (Rio de Janeiro, 2006); Espace Topographie de l'Art (France, 2007); Pinacoteca and Museo Civico (Italy, 2008); LX Factory (Portugal, 2009); Rio de Janeiro Museum of Modern Art (2012); São Paulo Biennial (1975 and 1977), among others. She has been represented by Galeria Raquel Arnaud since 1994.
